Tread carefully

The tyres on your car are arguably its most important safety feature. They are the sole point of contact between your car and the road, and should be checked regularly.

How likely is it that my tyres need checking?

A study by Continental Tyres revealed that up to 3.5 million motorists are driving on illegal tyres. The legal minimum tread depth is 1.6mm, but at this point your tyres are putting you and other road users at greater risk, as shown in the diagram below.

It is recommended you change your tyres when the tread depth reaches 3mm – following research that highlighted an 8 metre difference in stopping distance when travelling at 50 mph in the wet compared to tyres at the 1.6mm legal limit.

New tyre – 8mm tread depth

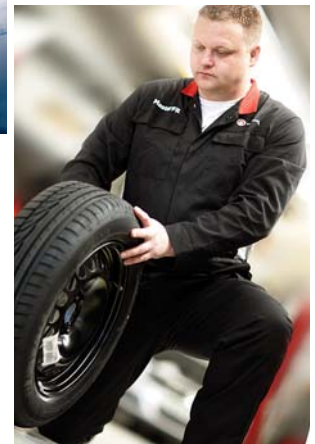

Recommended minimum – 3mm tread depth

+5.8 metres

Legal limit – 1.6mm tread depth

Source: Tyres were tested at 4 different tread depths – 8mm (new), 5mm, 3mm and 1.6mm. Tests were carried out by independent experts, the Motor Industry Research Association, in 2003 and 2004 on 4 different vehicles: a mid-range family hatchback, an MPV, executive saloon and a high performance saloon car. Depth of water controlled to 0.5mm to 1.5mm, on an asphalt road surface. Maximum braking force applied from a speed of 50mph.

†Tyre price promise offer is only available on selected leading brands – Continental, Pirelli, Dunlop, Michelin and Firestone – at participating Vauxhall MasterFit retailers, and is subject to availability. Please contact your local participating Vauxhall MasterFit retailer for details. Should you find the same tyre promoted locally (within a 5 mile radius) in stock and available for purchase at a lower price, including fitting, balancing and environmentally friendly old tyre disposal, within 48 hours of purchase, the supplying Vauxhall MasterFit retailer will refund the difference. In the event of a refund request, a written quotation or proof of purchase price including fitting, balancing and environmentally responsible old tyre disposal will be required. Retail customers only.
