

AN INDUSTRY FIRST

REMARKETING

An industry first – remarketing of emergency services vehicles. Vauxhall Special Vehicles recognise that Fleet Managers are under pressure to increase efficiency and to reduce the costs of providing sufficient and suitable vehicles to officers and staff within their organisations. An area which can require extra resource with both labour and space is the process of decommissioning vehicles at the end of their service period and remarketing them through auction.

A FIRST FOR EMERGENCY VEHICLES

We recognise that Fleet Managers are under increasing pressure to maximise efficiency and reduce the cost of sourcing vehicles. The decommissioning and remarketing of such vehicles can exert a particular drain on resources.

Our unique Vehicle Remarketing Service can be tailored to your individual requirements, reducing your administrative burden while promoting the reuse of high value vehicle equipment.

The process typically works like this:

- / Fleet Manager contacts VSV advising vehicle ID to remarket
- / VSV arranges collection and transports to decommissioning centre
- / MoT and service carried out (if required)
- / Unwanted parts removed and agreed items held for reuse or returned

/ Repairs carried out, vehicle prepared for auction

/ Vehicle auctioned

/ Financial administration concluded

As well as providing a choice of options when it comes to preparing the vehicle for resale, we also offer a range of flexible administration and financial solutions. These can include the Fleet Manager retaining all existing administration duties and receiving the resale proceeds from auction or, alternatively, minimising direct involvement, with the resale proceeds used to discount the cost of new vehicles.

To discuss the options in more detail please speak to your Vauxhall Special Vehicles Sales Manager.
